Southeast Outfall Islais Creek Crossing - Temporary Bypass Pipe Project

The Southeast Outfall pipes discharge treated wastewater (effluent) from the Southeast Treatment Plant into the San Francisco Bay. One of the two outfall pipes is leaking effluent into Islais Creek west of the 3rd Street Bridge. This is not a public health issue and the SFPUC is monitoring water quality in the area. Repairs are necessary to comply with permit requirements.

Work Starting June 2019

In June 2019, the SFPUC's contractor will be installing one temporary bypass pipe around the damaged pipe. Work will include construction barges and divers in the Creek. Installation of the temporary bypass pipe is anticipated to last approximately nine months.

Location of Project Activities

What to Expect During Construction

- Access to the waterfront and along the channel will be maintained during temporary pipe work.
- At times, access to the boat dock will be limited.
- Limited safety zones will be implemented to protect public and worker safety.
- Work Hours: 7:00AM – 6:00PM, Monday – Friday. Evening and weekend activity is not anticipated; however, the contractor may transport the drilling equipment via barge in the Creek at night if necessary.

Islais Creek Crossing Project Starting Mid-2020

Following the temporary bypass pipe installation, the Islais Creek Crossing Project will install two new permanent bypass pipes under Islais Creek to replace the aging pipes currently located in the same general vicinity. The temporary bypass pipe will be removed, and the aging pipes will be left in place. The new, larger pipes will increase flow capacity up to 110 Millions of Gallons per Day (MGD).
